AGS Legal seminars program BRISBANE

AGS offers diverse seminars in administrative law, freedom of information, privacy, employment law and other relevant government law topics. These sessions are designed to help government employees acquire the legal knowledge and skills they need to do their jobs efficiently.

Our presenters are AGS lawyers who have a great depth of knowledge of the government environment, and who practise extensively in the area of law covered by a particular session. They illuminate important principles with real-world examples, encourage active discussion of the issues and lead participants through practical problem-solving exercises.

The seminars are run as informally and interactively as possible and, where relevant, meet professional continuing legal education obligations.

Course materials provide participants with relevant source materials, exercises, model answers and pertinent extracts from legislation. Participants also receive a certificate of attendance.

When clients have special requirements, we can deliver our standard modules in-house or design customised seminars and presentations to suit particular needs.

The Australian Government Solicitor is a fully commercial and competitive law practice, operating as a government business. Through our offices in every capital city, we provide a comprehensive range of legal services – commercial, litigation, advice and training – to Australian Government departments and agencies. We also act for entities in which the Australian Government has an interest, domestically and internationally, and for state and territory government bodies at their request.
