AGS Legal training program

GOVERNMENT LAW TRAINING MODULE

Delegations and Authorisations

Target group

This course has been designed for participants who require an in-depth understanding of when and how delegations and authorisations can be made.

Course outline

The administration of delegations and authorisations by departments and other agencies is crucial to the effective business of government. This course covers:

- the legal basis for the devolution of power
- the difference between delegations and authorisations
- when a delegation or authorisation can be made

It is an interactive course and there are a variety of examples and exercises to illustrate key concepts. Course materials will be given to each participant for use as future reference material.

Objectives

Participants will gain an enhanced understanding of delegations and authorisations and an awareness of the things that departments and agencies should be mindful of when setting up and administering schemes of delegations and authorisations, and how risks can be minimised.

Presenters

Our presenters are experienced lawyers from our Office of General Counsel who have a great depth of knowledge of the government environment, and who specialise in statutory interpretation, machinery of government and constitutional law.

Duration

This is a two and a half hour course, either 9 am to 11.30 am or 1.30 pm to 4.00 pm. The calendar indicates when sessions are being offered by either 'am' or 'pm'. Morning/afternoon tea will be provided.
